Week3_CSSBasics | Week3_Reflection

In Week 3, I learned how to properly link an external CSS file to my HTML document and use it to style my page. I really enjoyed experimenting with different colors, custom fonts, and text styling to make the interface look much more attractive. A challenge I initially encountered was having some styles not apply because my file paths were wrong or class names were misspelled. I solved this by inspecting the elements in Chrome Developer Tools and carefully double-checking my CSS link tag in the head section. As an improvement, I customized the color palette and typography across the whole page to give it a clean and personal feel. Overall, this activity was fun and made me realize how much visual styling transforms a simple webpage.
